TEXAS Extended Campus joins forces with Dalton Education to launch online CFP® certification education program

AUSTIN, Texas — TEXAS Extended Campus, a continuing education unit at The University of Texas at Austin, and Dalton Education, a leading provider of education solutions in financial planning, are collaborating to offer financial planning professionals career-enhancing resources through a new CFP® certification education program.

The program, available through Virtual Classroom or Self-Paced delivery, is designed specifically for busy industry professionals, preparing them to take and pass the CFP® exam in nine months or less. In addition to comprehensive education resources, professionals have access to Dalton's CFP® exam review and Guarantee to Pass™, the industry's only CFP® exam education and review program to offer a money-back guarantee that students will pass the exam on their first attempt.

“The Center for Professional Education at TEXAS Extended Campus has an exceptional reputation for its traditional, classroom-based financial planning certificate program, with program graduates consistently scoring higher than the national average on the CFP® board certification exam,” said Joseph M. Gillice, president of Dalton Education. “We’re excited to collaborate with them to provide professionals access to additional financial planning education options, delivered online.”

“Now more than ever is the time for professionals to take stock of their careers and determine next steps and goals that will assist them in advancing,” said Erin Harris, director of course programming for TEXAS Extended Campus. “We’re committed to fostering that by providing them resources like Dalton’s thorough financial planning curriculum. We look forward to positive results.”
